Oxygen Facials Letting Your Skin Breathe

An oxygen facial is a skin treatment in which an airbrush is used to make your skin more plump. Oxygen facial provides a rich concentration of oxygen for direct application to the skin mix with the anti aging serum, moisturizer, vitamins and antioxidants to clear the face. The application of oxygen under hyperbaric pressure allows the epidermis to increase its oxygen surface level concentration. This pressure also assists in the rapid absorption of the serum. It can improve cells metabolism, lubricate collagen and elastin fibres, initialise osmotic hydration, carry antioxidants to the skin, aid in surface pigment dispersion, reduce cell degradation and attack, enhances the elasticity of the skin, reduce the fine lines and wrinkles, reduce erythema

You will see immediate skin glow so the result is 3 times faster than traditional hands facial.

Oxygen facials also don't last that long; for the first six weeks, you need to get a new treatment once a week. After that, once a month is supposed to be enough to maintain your wrinkle-free look.

How the Pure Oxygen treatment work:

We start off the treatment with a thoroughly cleanse and exfoliation, which is followed by the oxygen treatment. Pressurised pure hyperbaric oxygen is applied to the skin with a small pen/gun like device, the oxygen helps speed up absorption of the serum and skin care products which have rich botanical ingredients with free radical effect. Pure Oxygen real benefits lie in its ability to stimulate cell renewal and promote skin production of elastin and collagen.

Client feedback:

The treatment is quite relaxing, cooling and soothing. I was amazed the effects are truly instantaneous, after my treatment the “crunchiness” at the edges of my eyes is absolutely non-existent, the area around my forehead and lips is completely smooth and my face feels smooth and soft.

Oxygen is also known for its anti-bacterial qualities which I noticed most of all when, the day after my facial, a couple of little spots on my skin had significantly improved! All of this and I only had one treatment!

I love Pure Oxygen facial and definitely will keep on with scheduled treatment.
